FURTHER REMARKS

No identity of nor reasoning supporting the objection on the Office Action Summary exists. Corrections were made previously.

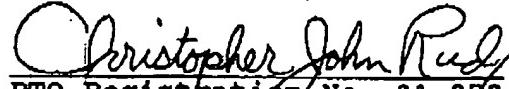

As may apply to the present claims, the rejections of claims 1-25 set forth under 35 USC 112, first and second paragraphs, are respectfully yet strenuously traversed. The term, "cam-follower bearing," is absent from the present claims. The term, "French F-channel," which should be read, "inverted French F-channel," is described in the specification and drawings, recognized in the art (US D478858), and the pertinent base claims define the term most particularly. The term, "set," is avoided in the claims; and claim 18 is properly, logically made dependent on claim 16.

As may apply to the present claims, the rejection of claims 1, 5 and 26-28 under 35 USC 102(e) over Darbshire, US 6328364, is respectfully traversed. No disclosure describes the inverted French F-channel, with its stabilizing base foot, as admitted on page 5 of the previous action and noting no Sec. 102(e) rejection of claim 23; nor the inverted U-channel, with its depending, rail-aligning portion that extends downwardly substantially the same distance as does its bearing-mounting portion -- as required in claim 1 and those claims dependent on it, including claim 5. Claims 26 and 31 are canceled with all their limitations inserted into claim 27. Claim 31 was not rejected under Sec. 102(e). So, claim 27 distinguishes over Darbshire, which has no disclosure of a movable mounting frame with a slide-in/out accessory that can slide in and slide out relative the movable frame, to include a drawer as also in claim 28, again which moves relative the movable frame. This is not mere movement relative a stationary frame such as with the drawer tray of Darbshire. The tray of Darbshire is fixed with respect to its movable mounting frame.

As may apply to the present claims, including claims 27 and 28, the rejections under 35 USC 103(a) over Darbshire in view of Tognetti, US 5649731, of Schneider, US 6116671, of Tognetti and Schneider, and of Clark et al., US 5803523, are respectfully traversed. Darbshire was commonly owned with this application and its priority application when the present invention was made. See, the STATEMENT OF COMMON OWNERSHIP on the introductory page.

Thus, the case is in condition for allowance. Nevertheless, the Examiner is invited to call the undersigned to discuss the case, or to seek authorization for an Examiner's amendment, and his kindly assistance in formulating allowed claims is requested.

Respectfully,

Christopher John Rudy
